

“A COP AND HIS GOD” is a book of twenty-five supernatural episodes that took place in the life of Mark Thorne (aka Joshua Adams), a 29-year veteran with the Fort Worth, Texas, Police Department. It was written to document God’s greatness, with the hope that police officers as well as other believers in America’s churches, would catch God’s vision that they too can do the same works that Jesus did as a part of their every-day life, while on or off the job.

Followers of Jesus Christ need to be encouraged, trained, and motivated that they too can share Christ with others. Mark’s stories, and teachings, emanate from his personal testimony and true life experiences. They are huge faith builders for anyone who may have difficulty sharing Christ with others, keeping the focus on the message of the gospel of Jesus Christ. Mark’s real-life messages will testify to others that the Kingdom of God that is within them, is so incredibly powerful that it will overcome, dominate, and change, everything that comes near it.

In 2009, Mark established “Cop Talk;” www.thecoptalk.com, a weekly Bible study for a hand-full of cops within the Fort Worth Police Department. With God’s power, it has grown to 40-60 police officers, meeting weekly during lunch, with each officer, one-by-one, catching the supernatural revelation that they too can tell others about their Savior and do the works of Christ!

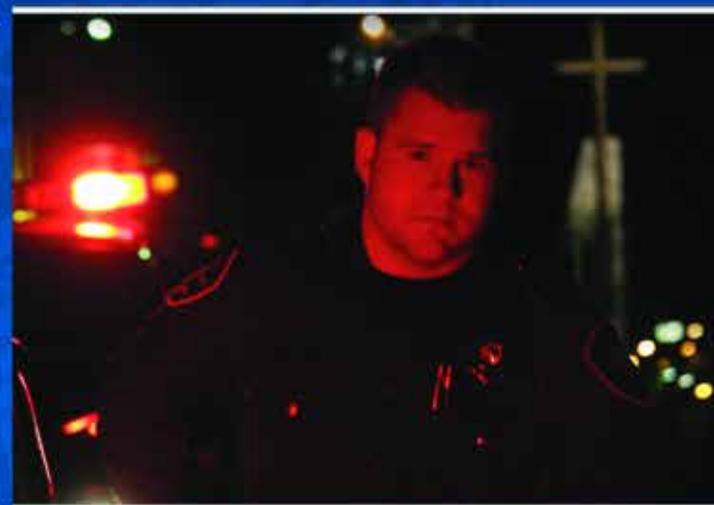

Prior to “Cop Talk,” Mark helped in the establishment of a program with the Fort Worth Police Department, called “CAPA” (Clergy and Police Alliance), which has gained national recognition. This program focuses on connecting the police department with pastors and other church leaders in the community.

Mark is a Sergeant of motorcycle police officers, an author and evangelist and has spoken to many police departments, churches and men’s groups concerning his passionate work. In his leisure time, Mark enjoys working out, motorcycling, gardening, cooking, golf, hunting and fishing. Mark has been married for 27 years to his wife Lacey and has two boys Matt and Mike.
